

Resumes can't test the only skill that matters.

What Cebu and Manila contact centers get wrong about screening for volume.

WHY BPO HIRING IS DIFFERENT

Four things a quarterly hiring plan misses.

Volume is constant, not seasonal — most BPOs hire every week of the year. Communication is the core competency, not a soft skill on the side. Attrition is a known cost center, which makes the hiring decision itself worth protecting. One standard, multiple cities — a pass in Cebu has to mean the same thing in Manila.

THE REAL BOTTLENECK

A CV can't hear how you talk.

Resumes are a keyword match, not a competency test. They can't show you how a candidate handles an irate customer, explains a fix clearly, or holds up under a high-pressure shift — which is exactly why over 70% of screening interviews end up run on candidates who turn out unqualified.

— TEST THE JOB, NOT THE INTERVIEW

Job Tryouts: performance over promises.

An interview measures how well someone interviews. Job Tryouts places candidates inside a realistic scenario — a difficult customer call, a technical objection — so the hiring decision is based on what they actually do, not what they say they'd do.

THE TURNOVER NUMBER

30-45%

Reduction in employee turnover for companies using Job Tryouts before making an offer. In an industry where attrition is one of the largest line items in the budget, that's not a marginal gain — it's a direct hit to the bottom line.

— SAME PROBLEM, SAME SCALE

460+ apps. Top 2%.

Not a BPO case study specifically, but the same volume-and-speed problem: a management trainee programme narrowed 460+ applications down to a top-2% shortlist of 10 finalists, and a Sri Lankan technology consultancy went from 488 resumes to 15 final-round candidates in a single week.

"The process remained 100% transparent and data-driven."

YOUR MOVE

See the real job, before the offer.

Not a hypothetical interview question — a live scenario your candidates actually have to handle. That's the only test that tells you who's ready for the floor.
